Report: APICS 2009 Conference at Dalhousie University

The goal of APICS is to promote research in the Atlantic Provinces. To that end a mathematics/statistics/computer science conference is held each year to promote graduate studies. The conference is attended primarily by undergraduate students. Students are encouraged to give talks and take part in various competitions. As well as lectures given by local professors, graduate students and undergraduates, two or three keynote talks are given by well know academics. The speakers we have this year are Carl Bender from Washington University in St. Louis and Holger H. Hoos from the University of British Columbia.

This year the conference took place between October 23rd and 25th was attended by 83 undergradutes, 35 gradute students and 35 faculty from universities all over the Atlantic region. There were 23 undergraduates who gave presentations and all of the graduate students presented results.

AARMS funding was used to support the two guest speakers.
