

MANAGING EDITORS

F. Mendivil, Acadia

H. Teismann, Acadia

EDITORIAL BOARD

B. Alspach, Regina

T. Archibald, Simon Fraser

J. Borwein, Dalhousie

C. Bose, Victoria

H. Brunner, Memorial

S. A. Campbell, Waterloo

J. Colliander, Toronto

E. Goodaire, Memorial

R. Illner, Victoria

D. Lemire, UQAM

R. Lockhart, Simon Fraser

G. MacDonald, UPEI

R. Nowakowski, Dalhousie

M. Pollanen, Trent

D. Poole, Trent

A. Sahin, DePaul

C. Soteros, Saskatchewan

K. Taylor, Dalhousie

P. Taylor, Queen's

A. Toms, UNB

K. Worsley, McGill

Aims and Scope

The Atlantic Electronic Journal of Mathematics is a refereed online journal for articles in mathematics and related disciplines. The primary purposes are to give students (both graduate and undergraduate) a venue for publishing papers and to publish survey articles from established researchers at a level suitable for students.

Each article is refereed by professional mathematicians to ensure a high publication standard. The focus is on highest quality of exposition and on interest, rather than editorial efficiency or the originality of results.

The AEJM publishes new results, new perspectives on known results, historical aspects of mathematics, relationships between areas of mathematics (or other areas of study), or interesting applications of mathematical techniques and ideas.

We publish two issues per year, one late in December and one in June, with submission deadlines in mid April and in mid November, respectively.

Submission

In keeping with the aim of the AEJM, we especially encourage submissions from student authors, both undergraduate and graduate students.

Manuscripts should be submitted electronically via e-mail to editor@aejm.ca.

The AEJM accepts initial submissions in most electronic document formats (TeX, LaTeX, MS Word, PDF, PS, DVI etc.). However, once the manuscript is accepted, the document will be need to be formatted in LaTeX using our style file and the author will be asked to do this. To aid in this process, we encourage authors to prepare their documents using the AEJM LaTeX template in the first instance. For further information on formatting a document, please contact the AEJM at editor@aejm.ca.

Articles should be written in either English or French.

As part of the initial submission, we request a short biographical note on each author.

After final revisions and formatting, articles will be posted permanently on the AEJM website; no further alteration will be allowed.